NOTE: To pass this class you must reasonably satisfy all the course requirements with a reasonable, good-faith effort. Failure to satisfy any one of the course requirements will result in a grade of F for the course.

Required readings: Books assigned for the course, available in the UCSD Bookstore, are listed below. Other required readings are listed with each week's assignments, below. Those additional readings will be available on electronic reserves and will be posted in electronic form to the course web site for download.

John Lampe, Yugoslavia as History: Twice There Was a Country

John Allcock, Explaining Yugoslavia

Sabrina P. Ramet, Balkan Babel

The following items are required for grad students; recommended for undergrads:

Sabrina P. Ramet, The Three Yugoslavias

Norman Naimark and Holly Case, eds., Yugoslavia and Its Historians: Understanding the Balkan Wars of the 1990s

Dejan Djokić, Elusive Compromise: A History of Interwar Yugoslavia

Francine Friedman, The Bosnian Muslims: Denial Of A Nation

Robert J. Donia, Sarajevo: A Biography
Required viewings: The film and video presentations, listed below with each week's assignments, will be on reserve. To insure that our discussions will be as informed and productive as possible, students should see them before the class session for which they are assigned. As required parts of the course material, they are fair game for exam questions.

Exams:

Foundational knowledge exam (10% of the course grade; undergraduate students only): a brief objective test based on the initial lectures and the study guide that will be reviewed in class and posted on WebCT.

In-class examinations (35% of the course grade; undergraduate students only): There will be a number of very brief in-class exams on a weekly or near-weekly basis. These exams will be designed to gauge your comprehension of the previous week's class presentation and the readings and/or viewings or other assignments (e.g., web assignments) assigned for the current week, so that everyone will always be prepared for class. If you have attended class and done all the assignments for the week in advance of the class meeting, you are likely to do very well on the exams, which represent a significant fraction of your grade. There will be a total of eight in-class exams administered; the lowest grade on two of the exams will be dropped.

Make up exams: Make-up exams will be given only in the case of a valid, documented excuse beyond the student's control (e.g., medical problems). Any make-up exam may be given in a different form and include different content. For example, the make-up test may be in the form of an oral exam!

We cannot make arrangements for alternate exam times due to multiple exams scheduled closely together, plans to leave campus early, etc. Check your exam schedule for your courses now -- they're available to you through StudentLink -- and make sure you've chosen a course schedule that you can live with throughout the course and at finals time!!

Final Examination/Research Paper (35% of the course grade for undergraduates; 50% for graduates): The final exam will be in the form of a research paper that will analyze important issues raised in the course through focused research concerning a topic agreed upon with the instructor in advance. For undergraduate students, the paper should be at least 12 pages long, when submitted in 12-point Times New Roman with no more than one-inch margins on all sides (i.e., of a length sufficient to satisfy upper-division writing requirements), though longer papers will certainly be acceptable, and welcome. The paper will be due at the end of time of the scheduled final exam for the course (see StudentLink). I may require that all students submit an electronic version of their final papers to turnitin.com. Complete instructions for the paper will be distributed early in the term. For graduate students, the final paper should be at least 20 pages long, again using the same formatting requirements (see above).

Deadline for final exam/research paper: Friday, 11 December (due by 4:00 pm)

Oral presentation (15% of the course grade; only for graduate students)

In consultation with me, you will develop a topic and make a presentation of approximately 20 minutes to the class, then lead the discussion that follows.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism: It is your responsibility to know and observe all university rules concerning academic integrity and plagiarism. Any student found to have committed a substantial, knowing or intentional violation of the university rules concerning academic integrity will fail the entire course. I view it as one of my chief responsibilities to help each of you produce first-rate academic work that reflects your own original thinking about the course themes and material. If you have any questions whatsoever about what constitutes plagiarism, how to properly credit the work and ideas of others, how to evaluate sources for quality and reliability, and so forth, please feel free to talk to me.
NOTE: UPDATED LISTS of additional assignments required for grad students/recommended for undergrads will be added regularly to the syllabus, and distributed via e-mail and/or WebCT.
