Course Overview:
This course surveys the history of colonial Latin America from the period just before the Spanish invasion through the Wars of Independence (c.1490-1825), with a special emphasis on social groups such as women, native peoples, and Afro-descended populations. Topics include contact and conquest, transatlantic trade and connections, labor systems, government, religion, society and gender, and enlightenment, revolution, and independence. By the end of the course students will have a greater understanding of how individuals of all ethnicities and socioeconomic levels shaped colonial society, yet how an elite group controlled vast resources and power through and after Independence. We will also consider connections between the colonial legacy and events and trends in contemporary Latin American.

Required Texts and Readings:
4. Journal articles listed on course overview (available through TED or UCSD Library).

Instructor’s Policies:

Plagiarism and academic honesty:
Please review university policy on plagiarism and academic honesty. You will receive a zero for any plagiarized assignment. Academic writing can be overwhelming. I am here to assist you. Please speak with me or another university representative about your options.

Attendance, Incompletes, and Extensions:
Attendance will not be monitored, but students should consider that lectures and exams form the basis of required assignments. Lecture outlines, and notes will not be posted online. Incompletes will be given only for compelling personal/medical reasons. Points will be deducted from late papers.

Disability Statement:
Any student with a disability that requires accommodation in the classroom or for any aspect of this class (examinations, etc.) should notify the instructor immediately or contact the staff of the Office for Student with Disabilities (OSD), University Center, Room 202, (858) 534-4382. All information and documentation of disability is confidential.

Class Etiquette:
Conducive learning environments are free of distractions. Eating, personal communication, tardiness, and frequent entering and exiting of the room are not allowed. Please turn off cell phones before class. Use of laptops during lecture is not permitted. Students who ignore these policies will be asked to leave class.

The instructor reserves the right to make modifications to this course outline.

Guidelines for Research Essay
Due Date: December 15, 2014

Format and Submission:
Papers must be typed and double-spaced. Use standard margins and size 12 font Times New Roman. Only hard copies of papers will be accepted. Every student also must submit his/her paper to “turnitin” on TED. Papers must be turned in by the due date. I will deduct five points for every day a paper is late. You will receive a zero for any plagiarized assignments.

Assignment:
You are required to produce a ten-page paper (no longer than 12) on some aspect of the colonial Latin American experience (social, cultural, economic or political). Papers should be well organized and clearly written. They must have a thesis statement (argument), an introduction, a conclusion and footnotes (more on that below). You do not need a title page or a bibliography. Content should be primarily analytical rather than descriptive. The paper must be based on at least three secondary and three primary sources (English or Spanish). Websites do not count as sources as the majority are not peer reviewed.

Themes or topics:
You can choose from the themes below or one of your choice with my approval. Please submit a topic to me in class by October 28th. I encourage everyone to attend my office hours to discuss topics and sources.
-women, native peoples, and castas
-views of conquest
-ethnic identity
-city and countryside
-exploitation in colonial society
-colonial institutions
- interethnic relations
- tensions and conflicts in colonial society
- social spaces and communal rituals
- religion and the church
- labor systems and economic factors
- local forms of governance
- gender roles, family dynamics

Style and Mechanics:
Proper spelling, punctuation, and grammatical correctness are expected and count towards your grade. Please follow the guidelines of the Chicago Manual of Style in regards to issues such as citations and style. Kate L. Turabian’s A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, and William Jr. Stunk’s The Elements of Style (New York, 1999) are also useful references for this course and others.

Citations:
References must be cited in footnote form according to the Chicago Manual of Style (see a few examples below). You can find this book in the library and an abridged version is available at http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/home.html. Footnotes should be single-spaced.

Guidelines for Readings
I draw heavily on the readings when constructing the midterm and final. Please bring a copy of all primary source readings to class.

The assigned readings cover much information. For the purposes of this course we focus particularly on some key features in the texts. Please consider the following activities for each assigned piece.

1. Argument—This is the key analytical component of the reading. What position is the author attempting to prove? Key words include—argue, believe, contend. The argument usually appears at the beginning of the piece and repeats throughout the text. Texts will have one main argument (but can have more) and several minor arguments. Highlight the argument(s) for each article.

2. Sources—These are the materials that the author uses to construct the text and form the basis of his/her argument(s). Historians draw from a wide range of sources, including primary and secondary. Primary sources are contemporary accounts of the period. Examples of primary sources include letters, reports, wills, and inventories. Secondary sources analyze and describe primary sources. Examples of secondary sources include textbooks, monographs, articles, and encyclopedias. Princeton University offers a concise web page on primary and secondary sources at http://www.princeton.edu/~refdesk/primary2.html.

3. Analytical versus descriptive—Texts contain both descriptive and analytical writing. We seek to identify the difference between the two so that we can incorporate both types in our research papers. Descriptive writing presents or describes information. Analytical writing interprets or analyzes the information.
