Course Description

This course focuses on the politics, socio-economics, and culture of the two Koreas. Beginning with an introduction to the legacies of Japanese rule (1910-45), we will first trace the domestic and international processes resulting in a fratricidal war that divided the peninsula at the 38th parallel. Through scholarly writings, primary documents, fiction, and films, we will then examine the emergence of the Republic of Korea (South Korea) and the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea (North Korea) as competing regimes within the global context of the Cold War. We will pay close attention to the ideological, socio-economic, and cultural differences separating these two regimes. At the same time, students will also explore the unexpected similarities experienced by the inhabitants of these mutually antagonistic nation-states. The final weeks will examine the question of everyday life in the two Koreas and among their overseas communities. By the end of the course, students will be able to evaluate the historical trajectories of North and South Korea and the challenges of re-unification.

Notes: All written assignments are to be printed out and submitted in class. No unauthorized email submissions will be accepted. Plagiarism is a serious offense and will be treated as such. Students found guilty of plagiarism will receive a failing grade for the assignment at hand. As the History Department’s statement on plagiarism explains, the “most obvious form of plagiarism is the verbatim copying of words, sentences, paragraphs or entire sections or chapter without quotation and proper attribution… You must use quotation marks even if you only borrow several words in sequence from a source.” All students should read the History Department’s statement on plagiarism: http://history.ucsd.edu/ugrad/current/academic-integrity.html. If you are unclear about any aspect, you should ask the instructor for clarification before completing assignments.

Class Expectations
I expect that you read and reflect on the assigned materials (approximately 100 pages per week) before you come to class. You should be prepared to discuss all materials listed for each class session. The “study question(s)” are designed to guide you as you read. At a minimum, you should be able to respond to these questions in class by making direct reference to secondary scholarship [marked with an asterisk (*) below] and primary source materials [marked with a plus (+) below]. For this reason, I expect that you bring all assigned course materials to each class, including online articles (preferably, as marked printouts, or as PDFs on your laptop) and be ready to make use of them in discussions. Periodically, pop quizzes on assigned readings will be administered at the beginning of class to ensure that students are adequately preparing for class discussions. Those who arrive to class late will not be given additional time to take quizzes. As part of your preparation/participation grade, students will also be required to discuss secondary and primary readings in person (not over email) with all team members during the quarter to design three to four discussion questions, to be emailed to the instructor by 10 PM on the Monday or Wednesday before class. Laptops should only be used to take notes and to view class-related materials. Cell phones and other social networking devices may not be used during class time, as they tend to distract from individual and group learning. Students should also refrain from unnecessary chatting, late arrivals/early departures, and other disruptive behavior.
PART I:
POST-LIBERATION TRIBULATIONS (1945-60)

Week 1: Setting the Scene

1. Introduction to the Course (3/29)

2. Late Colonial Korea in Japan’s Wartime Empire (3/31)
   * Michael E. Robinson, Korea’s Twentieth Century Odyssey (56-99)
   ♫ Film: Angels on the Streets (1941; 73 minutes)

   Study Questions: How does Michael Robinson characterize the development of the Korean economy and society under Japanese rule? How can you relate the film Angels on the Streets (1941) to the era of wartime mobilization (1931-45)?

Week 2: Post-Liberation Politics

3. Colonial “Liberation” and its Explosive Aftermath (4/5)
   * Michael E. Robinson, Korea’s Twentieth Century Odyssey (100-10)
