Course Description:

Germany has been at the center of some of the 20th century's most crucial events. Conflicts and tensions inside Germany frequently spilled over Germany's borders and affected the lives of millions of non-Germans, thus shaping the course of 20th century European and world history. This course follows the extremely volatile and often violent course of German history from its emergence as a nation state in the 19th century to the total collapse of the Nazi dictatorship in 1945. In particular, the course will examine two major themes: first, we will examine continuities and contingencies in Modern German History. Was there, for example, a direct link between the unification of Germany through "iron and blood" under Bismarck in 1870/71 and the rise of Hitler in the 1930s? Why did the Weimar Republic (1918-1933) that was celebrated for its liberal constitution, progressive welfare system, and vanguard culture turn into one of the most destructive regimes in human history? What were the alternatives to this disastrous course of Modern German history and why did these alternatives ultimately not materialize? Secondly, the course will entail a detailed examination of the Nazi period. We will address such issues as the structure of the Nazi dictatorship, the nature of the Nazi "racial community," the peculiar mixture of popular consent and coercion, and the regime's policies of war and genocide.

Course Requirements

1. Attendance:
This is an upper-division lecture course. There are no requirements except for a basic curiosity and a willingness to engage with the course material. Even though this is primarily a lecture course, I will make every effort to encourage student participation through discussions and group exercises. Regular class attendance will therefore be absolutely essential for the successful completion of this course. The lectures and discussions will complement, not duplicate the readings, and they will contain essential information for the various written assignments. As a result, you will not do well in this course if you fail to attend the lectures.

2. i-clickers
This course uses i-clickers. You need to make sure to register your i-clicker through the ted website. I will use i-clicker in two different ways. First, at the beginning of each Wednesday class (starting in Week 2), I will ask two or three “red questions” related to the readings. These are comprehension questions, and you will be able to answer them if you have completed the reading assignments. I will not count the two lowest scores, this also why there are no “make-up” quizzes if you miss one of them. Then I will ask a series of “green questions” throughout the lectures (on Mon and Wed). They have no “right” or “wrong” answer and are supposed to foster discussion and peer-instruction. You will simply get points for participation. Your combined score of the red and green questions will count for 20 percent of your grade.

3. Exams and Writing Assignments:
There will be three assignments in this course. One short paper on Effie Briest due at the beginning of Week 3, a short paper due in two installments (in Week 8 and Week 10), and a final exam.

4. Grading:
Every student has to make a reasonable, good faith effort to complete all the course assignments in order to pass the course. Late papers will be penalized, make-up exams are only possible in the case of documented valid excuses. Throughout the quarter, I will coordinate with the readers grading policies and criteria for evaluating the written assignments. If you are unhappy with a grade you have received for one of the assignments, you must submit a written complaint to me no later than one week after we have returned the assignment. This will ensure a fair and standardized procedure for dealing with your complaint. I will not consider any later complaints. The final course grade will be determined as following: first paper 20, i-clicker 20%, final paper 30%, final exam 30%. However, I will not determine the final grade on a purely mathematical basis. I will reward, for example, a demonstrated commitment to this course through regular attendance and participation, and I will also take into consideration improvement over the course of the quarter.

5. Course Policy:

a. Academic Integrity:
It is your responsibility to know and observe all the UCSD rules concerning academic integrity and plagiarism. Any student found to have committed a violation of the university rules concerning academic integrity will face academic and administrative consequences. I will report all suspected academic misconduct to the Academic Integrity Office, in accordance with University policy. Administrative sanctions can range from disciplinary probation to suspension and dismissal from the university. Academic sanctions can range from an F on the assignment to an F in the class. Please also make sure to observe the rules for collaboration in preparing the writing assignment and the final take-home exam. It is fine, even encouraged, to discuss the course material with your peers. But your papers should reflect your own individual original thinking about the course themes and material. If you have any questions whatsoever about what constitutes plagiarism, how to properly credit the work and ideas of others, what constitutes permissible cooperation with other students, how to evaluate sources for quality and reliability, and so on, please feel free to contact me. I view it as one of my chief responsibilities to help each of you produce first-rate academic work that reflects your own original thinking about the course themes and material.

b. Conduct in Class.
Please don't talk during class. Lecturing is hard and requires my full concentration. If I see you talking, I get very insecure and begin to wonder why you are not listening to me.
Such incidents throw off my concentration and everybody else will wonder why I no longer speak in complete sentences. Also, please do not start packing up your belongings before the end of the class. I will end my lectures on time (even if I have to stop in mid-sentence), so please give me the full 80 minutes. Finally, this course makes heavy use of a course website and online materials. This means that the classroom has a wireless Internet connections. If you plan to use your laptop, i-pad or any other internet device in class, I would like to ask you to sit in the front rows. I would also like to ask you not to use classtime to surf the internet, update facebook, write e-mails etc. This can be very distracting to those students around you. I reserve the right to prohibit the use of all electronics in the classroom if it appears that they are being used for non-class related purposes.

c. Course Website
Throughout the quarter, I will make extensive use of a course website. It is essential that every student has regular access to this website. You will need your UCSD user ID and password to log on. The site contains will include lecture outlines. However, I would like to emphasize strongly that the online materials are not sufficient to replace attendance of the lectures. They should help students to follow the lectures and to review the course material in preparation for the exams; they are not supposed to substitute face-to-face interaction in the classroom.
